TRINITY TRACK TEAM TRIMMED

Season Ended by 85 to 41 Triumph Over Hartford Institution.

SPRINTERS AGAIN STAR

Hamilton's Cinder Trotters closed the season Saturday by defeating the Trinity College track team by the decisive score of 85 to 41. Trinity defeated the Buff and Blue in the last dual meet with them, and as nothing was known of their this year's team Hamilton thought that they were to have one of the hardest meets of the year.

The weather was fine for a track meet, and with the exception of a rather brisk wind which somewhat hindered the men running on the back-stretch, it was an ideal day for the events.

The Hamilton team started off with a rush and had a good lead on their opponents all through the meet. Terrel, who ran his first intercollegiate race, won the mile in 4:52, the best time done on the home track this year.

Reed, Holler, and Peters won all three places in both the 100 and 220. The sprinters broke away from the Trinity men in the first 50 yards in both events and held their lead to the finish. Reed's time in the 100 was gotten by one timer as ten seconds flat, but as the other timers caught him at ten and one-fifth, he failed to be officially credited with breaking the college record. Clapp of Trinity ran a star race in the two mile and easily beat out Williams. Pope came through in the low hurdles, as usual, and Lawler easily nosed out his man in the high hurdles. Fletcher surprised the college by winning the pole vault and deserves praise for the way in which he has mastered this event, as this season was his premier. Eckler deserves the same praise for his ability with the hammer, which event he won again Friday. Goldstein of Trinity won the 440 in 54 and 2-5 seconds, the best time seen here this year. In the broad jump Hamilton took all three places, Kaiser winning with a jump of twenty feet and seven inches.

Summary of Events

100-yd. dash—Won by Reed (H); 2nd, Holler (H); 3rd, Peters (H). Time, 10 1-5 sec.

RENSSELAER TAKES GAME FROM VARSITY

Errors by Hamilton in First Inning Cause Defeat.

RESTLE PITCHES WELL

Hamilton was the victim of a tragedy of errors at Troy on Saturday. In the first inning the Buff and Blue's errors resulted in R. P. I. scoring four runs. After that fatal inning the team settled down and really outplayed their opponents. The final score was Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, 7; Hamilton, 5.

Restle, who was on the mound for Hamilton, pitched a good game, and without the errors that prevailed in the first, "Stan" would probably have another victory added to his string. Baldwin, the opposing twirler, was in good form also.

Johnson, who was injured in the Union game on the preceding day, was replaced by Baumler. Barry took the place of Clark in the eighth inning when the latter hurt his hand sliding into third.

In the first, R. P. I. started off with a rush and assisted by Hamilton's errors got four runs across the plate. After that Restle got to work, the team ceased heaving the ball wild and R. P. I. was able to score but three more runs. One of these came in the second and two more in the sixth. Baldwin held the Buff and Blue batsmen hitless until the fourth inning, when two runs were pushed over. In only one inning, the seventh, did Hamilton sufficiently bunch her bingles to permit of further scoring. In this frame, a combination of hits netted three runs and it began to look like a rally, but the side was retired before the necessary tallies were gained.

SENIORS PLAN TO HOLD BALL

Old Custom Renewed After Lapse of Several Years.

FRIDAY, JUNE 13

Plans for Class Day, Friday, June 13, are shrouded in absolute mystery. However, it has been whispered around the Campus that the best program yet shown on any Class Day by Hamilton College is in the making, if not already completed. No traitors to 1919 roam these slopes of our Alma Mater. No secrets will be offered to the public, least of all to 1920.

The Class Day program is being arranged by a Committee of Three, consisting of Chairman Bratton, and Messrs. Stone and Valentine. The grand surprise no doubt will appeal not only to the sentiment and spirit of the College, but also to the humor of the audience. The parts to be played by Class Prophet Stone, Class Poet Pierce, Class Historian Stratton, and Ivy Orator Reed are awaited in suspense and expectancy.

The ambitious members of the graduating class will not be contented with a mere performance and solemn exercise in the morning hours. They are also to revive the custom of holding a dance in the evening, or, more accurately, from eleven o'clock until six in the morning. Chairman McLean of the Dance Committee has been noticed hurrying across the Campus with his responsibilities clearly portrayed on his countenance. The last Senior Ball was in 1911, but the class plans that this one will be an affair which will live down through the ages in the memories of all who attend it and who chip out the small entrance fee of (gold) $2.25. The above mentioned fee is indeed small when one considers that it will admit a couple to seven hours of dancing after the Charlatan performance, to refreshments rivalling those served at Prom. time, and to music as excellent and appropriate as provided at the D. T. Dance. All in all, Class Day this year will do the Seniors honor.

JESSUP WINNER OF K. P. CONTEST

"The Religion of the Battlefield" Secures Important Prize.

FIVE MEN IN COMPETITION

In the midst of keen competition Philip Caryl Jessup, of New York, won the Sixty-fourth Clark Prize Exhibition in the Stone Church at Clinton last Wednesday evening, May 28, wresting the victory with difficulty from his four rivals for the highest honor in the Department of Public Speaking at Hamilton College. The five orations were previously picked on their literary merit from those submitted from the Senior Class. The speakers, in order of their appearance, were: Theodore Hawthorne Skinner, E. Las Vegas, N. M., "Nationalism and World Patriotism"; Philip Caryl Jessup, New York, "The Religion of the Battlefield"; Oliver Wesley Hutchinson, Lowell, Mass., "Nationalism and World Patriotism"; Paul Mahlon Hamlin, Pittston, Pa., "The Impotence of Force"; John William Bratton, Brooklyn, "Irish Autonomy". Organ selections were furnished during the intermission and while the judges were conferring, by Thorpe, '20, and Turner, '22.

Professor Carl L. Carmer, head of the department of Public Speaking, presided over the contest. Following the invocation, Professor Carmer introduced the first speaker. The order of the speakers had been chosen by lot. Two men took as their subject "Nationalism and World Patriotism," but this repetition of subjects did not in the slightest degree detract from the interest of the contest, as the speakers treated their topic in totally different ways and their styles of delivery were strikingly dissimilar.

Theodore Hawthorn Skinner, of E. Las Vegas, spoke first, on "Nationalism and World Patriotism." His oration was well written and he spoke impressively. He emphasized strongly the fact that Nationalism must go. It has too long fostered imperialism and race hatred. He also explained that the idea that "might makes right" is antiquated and must be obliterated if we wish lasting peace. "A new nation must arise which must express itself in world patriotism."

Philip Caryl Jessup delivered his splendid oration on "The Religion of the Battlefield" with such conviction and earnestness that his hearers forgot that he was a prize contestant and listened with intense interest to his message as coming from a man who knew from experience what he was talking about. Jessup first explained that only he who speaks as a private in the ranks can explain the innermost conceptions of the soldiers. Such a man is Donald Hankey, who has spoken out of the heart of his personal experience. The speaker proved conclusively that the claim set forth in the early days of the war that "under the horror of life in the trenches, men were driven to atheism, or at best to fatalism" is absolutely without ground. To illustrate this, he quoted various passages from the writings of Donald Hankey, Harry Emerson Fosdick, and Judge Ben Lindsay. "It is necessary only to consider the circumstances under which the soldier thinks to discard finally and decisively the charges of atheism and of fatalism," the speaker said. He then explained in a very vivid way the hardships a man in the trenches went through and the terrible conditions under which he thought. Many believe that in this description was displayed the best bit of oratory of the evening, the climax coming when Jessup imitated the zing of a machine gun bullet. This was so realistic that it sent a thrill through the audience.

"Under an enemy barrage," the speaker said, "man feels his helplessness as he can nowhere else." It is there that he turns to God with simple prayers. The speaker told, in illustration, of an ambulance driver who from underneath his car promised God anything if he would save him. In such a position another soldier recited every hymn he could remember and then went through the whole list again. Such instances as these show the spirit and religion of the men in the trenches. After giving an exposition of the way most of the soldiers feel towards the church, the speaker closed his address with the following paragraph:

"The battlefield is not a theological seminary, producing orthodox opponents of ideal theories; it is a high school of experience, and the graduates have established a solid mental base upon which liberal minded Christians can, if they will, rear a sublime superstructure of practical Christianity."

The third oration of the evening was another on the subject of "Nationalism and World Patriotism," this one being delivered by Oliver Wesley Hutchinson, of Lowell, Mass. Hutchinson treated his subject in a different manner than Skinner. His oration was very forceful and contained good arguments against nationalism and in favor of world patriotism. He also emphasized the fact that "Gone is the time when might makes right" and that "The age of humanity has come." The speaker ended his address with a stirring appeal when he cried: "America, awake, expand your vision to include the world."

After a short intermissio, during which musical numbers were furnished, Paul Mahlon Hamlin, of Pittston, Pa., took the platform and delivered an excellent oration on "The Impotence of Force." He vividly pointed out the inability of force, such as Germany has advocated for so long, to accomplish anything good in the world. Unless force is obliterated from the earth, we can never have a lasting peace. Hamlin's oration was well written and delivered in a way that could not help but hold the audience and convince them.

The fifth and last in the list of Clark Prize Orations for 1919 was that delivered by John William Bratton, of Brooklyn, on the subject "Irish Autonomy." Bratton handled this much-discussed subject with a thorough knowledge and his address was very convincing. He explained with undeniable facts that Ireland deserves her liberty and proved to the satisfaction of everyone present that Ireland is able to rule herself. The speaker stated that not until Ireland gets the liberty which belongs to her, will there ever be a lasting peace. He begged that "If not for the sake of justice then for the sake of peace, let Ireland have her freedom" and closed with the plea that we "give back to Ireland that which is Ireland's."

The judges, composed of all the members of the faculty with the exception of Professor Carmer, then withdrew to make their decision. While they were out, Thorpe and Turner again favored with organ music. The announcement of the judges was made by Professor Carmer.

—Under an arrangement recently appoved, Yale men eating at the training tables must pay for their own board. The idea of general participation in athletics is still being pushed at the university, the latest step being the appointment of a committee to make plans for a large new athletic field to surround the bowl.

—If sufficient interest is shown at Williams, a gun club is to be formed in the near future, and Professor Kellogg, who has distinguished himself by his trap shooting, will give personal instruction in the use of the shot gun.

—Brown's honor roll of 43 men who died in the service, together with a personal sketch of each and the war record of the university itself in the S. A. T. C. and B. N. T. U. will be features of a "War Record of Brown University."

A Victorious Season

Hamilton's artists of the cinder path have turned in a most brilliant record for the past season. Three victories, over Union, Rochester, and Trinity, and a fluke defeat at the hands of Hobart, is a season accomplishment that has not been equalled in many years.

The Hobart meet was the first on the schedule and Hobart was able to come in a victor by one point mainly through the efforts of Dwyer, their star sprinter and Captain also. The The program of events in this meet was somewhat cut down inasmuch as Hobart had no men who threw the discuss. The Union meet was run off in the rain and Captain Reed's men proved themselves ducks as well as speedsters, and turned in an easy victory over the Maroon. Captain Reed, Peters, '20, and Holler, '21, starred in the sprints, taking all three places by a good margin over Union's best man. The Rochester meet was almost a duplication of the Union meet and Hamilton won easily by a margin of over twenty points. The Trinity meet was a walkover and the boys from Hartford afforded little opposition for the Buff and Blue Speed Kings.

To Captain Reed and Coach Prettyman, together with his able assistant, Paul Squires, '17, is due the fine showing this year. Both coaches have been assiduous in their devotion to the work of turning out a winning team and have spared no work or effort to make it what it proved to be. Captain Reed was an ideal captain and the responsibility which rested upon his shoulders was borne in a way which commanded the respect of ot only his teammates but of the entire college body. His work in the sprints was magnificent and he receives the well deserved congratulations of the entire college on a brilliant season's record.

Coach Prettyman and the newly-elected Captain, Couper, '20, are already looking forward to the 1920 season with interest. Although the team will sadly miss Captain Reed in the sprints, Valentine in the hurdles and broad jump, and McLean in hammer, the outlook seems unusually bright for next year. Several Prep. School stars have already signified their itention of entering the class of 1923. Prospects for even a more brilliant record next year seem unusually bright, even at this early date.

Examinations

Review week is at hand and already the Seniors are beginning the last examinations in their college course. Examinations for the undergraduate body are only a week away. It behooves us to urge and remind the college, especially the Freshmen of the nearness of their approach.

Examinations mean a great deal to us at present. They are a necessary part in our scheme of education and flunking a course is one of the few things that is discouraging and detrimental to college morale. The time to get busy and work to prepare is the present. If you have been shirking all term, you cannot afford to wait any longer. You cannot afford to flunk courses and the college cannot afford to lose you. After all, your primary object in college is to get an education and pass your work. You owe something to those who send you here, you owe something to yourself and above all you owe a great deal to the college. Get started now and pass not half, but all of your work.

LATIN PLAY NEARLY READY

Rudens Cast Changed Owing to Gorman's Injury.

On Saturday afternoon, June 14, the Latin play, "The Rudens" by Plautus, will be given in the Gym. The cast has been hard at work rehearsing every week and under the direction of Professor Chase will succeed in giving one of the best Latin plays that has ever been seen on the Hill. Last week the costumes were tried on for the first time and were found to be excellent in every way. Prof. Chase has written an introduction to the play as well as a translation which is expected to leave the printer's hands some time this week. last week.

Weller will take the place of Gorman as Labrax. This action is due to the fractured ankle which the latter sustained during the Colgate game

The setting of this play will be different from that of the usual Roman stage scene in that it is not situated in a courtyard, but along the shore. To the back of the stage is seen the sky-line and to each side stands a building with an open court between. The buildings are a temple and a cottage, the home of Daemones. The characters of the play are of two types, the peasant or fisherman type and the city type.

CHALARTANS PLAY AT COMMENCEMENT

Four One-act Plays to be Given on Friday, June 13th.

HELENA'S HUSBAND REVIVED

On Friday evening, June 13, at 8:30 sharp, The Charlatans will present their third annual Commencement performance. The plans and rehearsals for the series of four one-act plays, which will make up the program, are well under way. This performance will see put into use, for the first time in their entirety, the new stage properties which the Charlatans have acquired. With the large stage in the Gymnasium at its disposal, the organization looks forward to producing artistic and very original effects.

To make a more evenly balanced program, it has been decided to retain for the Commencement performance the comedy, "Between the Soup and the Savory," in place of the drama, "Two Crooks and a Lady." The program will then be as follows: "Between the Soup and the Savory," "Night," "A Night at an Inn," and "Helena's Husband." Martin, '20, has agreed to take the place of Nino, '20, in "Night," as the latter has to leave the Hill before June 13.

Professor Fancher wishes to take this opportunity to publicly express his appreciation of the hard work, co-operation and nobleness of ideals on the part of The Charlatans. He feels that only because of this fine "esprit de corps" has this organization been so distinctly successful, and he looks forward to the time when the excellent work of The Charlatans may be seen and appreciated by communities a long way from the Hill.

It would not be possible, even if it were wise, to single out the work of individual members of the organization, but Professor Fancher does not want the yea rto end without mentioning with praise and with thanks the very valuable work which Pierce, '19, has contributed and which has so greatly aided in making this year a success for The Charlatans.

The performance will commence at 8:30 sharp and no one will be admitted to the Gymnasium during a play. The demand for seats at this performance is so great and the seating capacity so limited on the main floor of the Gymnasium, that it has been decided to seat in the gallery all children who attend the plays. Children are most welcome and this decision has been made only with regard to the greater comfort of the adults present.

—Rev. David L. Roberts, '94, of Mexico, N. Y., has accepted a call to become the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Waterloo, N. Y.

—Kinsley G. Romer, '20, is stationed in the Medical Department on duty at the Base Hospital at Camp A. A. Humphreys, Va.

—John V. Weaver, '14, has recently accepted a position with the American Surety Company with offices in Chicago at 268 South LaSalle street.

—Eugene F. Scott, ex-'19, who has been in France for about a year, was discharged from the Motor Transport Corps on May 20. He may re-enter college next fall.

Spice o' Life

Weakly Pome

When we look about the college
And think how soon we'll go
To leave these realms of knowledge
And all we've learned to know,
We will look with joy and gladness
To the time when we return,
To the studies and the sadness,
O'er the things we have to learn.
For at times we tire of working
And we're glad to get away,
But in our hearts is lurking
Dreams of the coming day
When we'll once more pass the arbor
As we come back in the fall
To moor once more in harbor,
Our ships of learning all.

The Story of Your Study Lamp

IF you were studying by an old smoky oil lamp and suddenly a modern, sun-like MAZDA lamp were thrust into the room, the contrast would be dazzling. That instant would unfold the result of thirty years' development, research and manufacturing in electric lighting.

EDISON'S FIRST LAMP

And this development commenced with Edison's first lamp—hand-made, when electricity was rare.

The General Electric Company was a pioneer in foreseeing the possibilities of Edison's invention. Electric generators were developed. Extensive experiments led to the design and construction of apparatus which would obtain electric current from far-away waterfalls and deliver it to every city home.

With power lines well distributed over the country, the use of electric lighting extended. Street lighting developed from the flickering arc to the great white way. Electric signs and floodlights made our cities brilliant at night, searchlights turned night into day at sea, and miniature lamps were produced for the miner's headlight and automobile.

While the making of the electrical industry, with its many, many interests, was developing, the General Electric Company's laboratories continued to improve the incandescent lamp, and manufacturing and distributing facilities were provided, so that anyone today can buy a lamp which is three times as efficient as the lamp of a few years ago.

WITH THE COLLEGES

Major General Clarence R. Edwards, former Commander of the Department of the East, is among the thirteen distinguished men to whom Trinity will award Honorary Degrees at its Commencement on June 23, 1919. Among the others are Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior; Elbert H. Gary, President of the United States Steel Corporation; Dr. Thomas G. Masaryk, the newly elected President of the Czecho-Slovak Republic, who is directing the affairs of his state from Washington, D. C.; Percival W. Clement, Trinity '68, Governor of Vermont, and Colonel Calom D. Cowles, U. S. A., retired, who commanded the Trinity Unit of the S. A. T. C.

The General Education Board, founded by John D. Rockefeller, has announced a gift of $500,000 toward the fund of $2,000,000 which Harvard University is raising to endow a graduate school of education.

The Navy Department has announced a plan for keeping the commissioned force of the Naval Reserve up to full strength. Any college or university which desires, and which has the facilities, can have a unit of the Naval Reserve. The course will be for four years with several weeks every summer spent in camps or on cruises. The men who complete this four years' work will then be sent to the Naval Academy for two months. Upon graduation the classes will take a cruise to Europe to study foreign navies and upon return will be commissioned Ensigns in the United States Naval Reserve.

Yale expects the largest gathering of alumni in its history this Commencement when fifty-six classes will hold reunions. Many of these reunions have been postponed on account of the war and it is believed that over four thousand graduates will be on hand. This is double the usual number. Each delegation will bring a band and a generally lively time is expected.

The Harvard Magazine has announced the foundation of a new college daily to compete with the Crimson. In a lengthy article criticizing the present paper as not being truly representative of the University, the Magazine calls for support of the new project.

HAMILTON DROPS ONE TO COLGATE

Accidents Mar First Contest With Nearby Rivals.

GORMAN BREAKS ANKLE

Hamilton lost its second game of the season Wednesday when Colgate defeated the Varsity by a 9-2 score at Hamilton, N. Y. The game was marred by injuries and numerous errors by Hamilton. Colgate's ability to hit and Hamilton's inability to play air-tight ball accounted principally for the result.

The Varsity got away to a good start and scored in the first inning. Capt. Fursman led off with a walk, and Campbell sacrificed him to second. Then Johnson came through with one of the prettiest hits of the season to right field. Fursman scored, but Johnson was put out in trying to stretch the bingle to a triple. The side was retired when Pritchard was out, from short to first, on an infield hit. Hungerford was forced to retire in this inning when his hand was injured by a foul tip. McBride replaced him behind the bat. Colgate scored its first runs in the second when Schilling and Anderson tallied on errors. In the third and fourth the Maroon came across with four more runs. In the fifth Cotterel sustained a twisted knee in sliding second, and Steffen took his place at short. McBride went back to second again, and Shea replaced him as catcher.

Hamilton scored its second tally in the sixth. Johnson singled to left field for his second hit of the game. Pritchard reached first on an error, Johnson advancing to second. Gorman hit safely and Johnson reached home. Gorman was injured in this frame while stealing second. His foot became entangled under him, and his ankle was broken. He was unable to continue the game, and Davis was put in behind the bat. In the last three innings Baumler and Leonard, who replaced Blume as pitcher, tightened up, and no more runs were scored.

For Hamilton, Johnson was the leading batsman with two hits to his credit. Steffen and McBride also secured two bingles apiece. Blum pitched good ball for Colgate but allowed six walks in as many innings.

HAMLIN PREPARES TO VISIT CHINA

Hamilton's Representative to Yali College to Sail Soon.

With Commencement approaching, Hamilton's representative to Yali College, Changsha, China, is preparing for the trip half way around the world. Paul M. Hamlin, '19, who volunteered to help spread Hamilton spirit and fame to foreign lands, leaves America the end of July for his duties across the Pacific in the far interior of our sister republic.

Hamilton's Educational Enterprise in China of course needs support. This support is coming from the student body and faculty of the College. The alumni's support is also hoped for. The first installment of the money promised some time ago has been collected. The rest will be added as it becomes due. The funds will be kept in charge of Dr. Dale, the treasurer of the Association for Undergraduate Activities. Dr. Wood and President Johnson of the College Y. M. C. A. will be in regular postal communication with Hamlin, who will make reports at short intervals as to the amount and kind of work he is doing and as to any other matters of interest to the College.

The promoters of the movement to send a Hamilton man out to the faculty of Yale-in-China wish to express their appreciation through the medium of Life to all who have contributed to the enterprise and supported it by enthusiastic moral aid as well.

MAROON BEATS BUFF AND BLUE

Outplays Varsity in Fast, Exciting Game.

JOHNSON HURT

Union's warriors of the diamond evened up the annual spring baseball series last Saturday when they defeated the Buff and Blue team by the score of 3 to 0. Gilbert, the Maroon twirler, was in fine form, striking out thirteen men and allowing only three hits. Baumler also pitched a good game, but was handicapped by poor support in the pinches. Johnson turned his ankle sliding to third, but finished the game. Beaver starred for Union, getting two hits and playing a good game in the outfield.

The Union team was out to retrieve the defeat they had received here on the Hill and played fast ball all the way. Gilbert, who had been hammered quite hard in the game here, was in fine fettle, and the Buff and Blue Varsity was unable to find him when hits meant runs. Campbell and Fursman were the shining lights in the Hamilton infield, Campbell pulling off several difficult and clever plays.
